Clever details make this bathroom appear larger than it is.

Shared by two siblings in their twenties, this small bathroom needed smart space solutions, especially considering the brief was to include both a bath and a shower. “The layout was zoned into a ‘wet area’ for the walk-in-shower and bath, and a ‘dry area’ for the vanity and toilet,” says Ioanna Lennox of Ioanna Lennox Interiors. “This way the space feels much more functional and a lot bigger.” The entire home underwent a renovation, and the bathroom is beautifully cohesive with the overall look: one of contemporary elegance. “We relied on beautiful materials and a palette of white walls, black tapware and black framed mirror and lights,” says Ioanna, pointing out that the monochrome terrazzo tiles add a “touch of whimsy”.

What was the brief for this bathroom? Our clients wanted the bathrooms to belong within the overall aesthetic of the renovation. This was essentially an eclectic mix of classical elements, colour, pattern and texture, but we had to remain cognisant of the multiple functions a modern bathroom has to perform.

Were there any challenges along the way? This bathroom had a fairly small footprint – the challenge was to make it look more spacious and lighter while injecting a feeling of understated luxury.

What do you love about the space? The choice of tiles and the way these were used. We created a runway by taking the striking terrazzo tiles from the floor up the back and side walls and, by placing the bath at the end, you get a real sense of an ‘arrival moment’ when you walk in.
